

1 ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

2 A support bandage for a joint between bones includes a small fraction 3 having two opposite first longitudinal sides sewn with two opposite second 4 longitudinal sides of a large fraction. The small fraction is incurved towards the 5 large fraction, and has two arcuate seams on the small fraction. The segment 6 between the two arcuate seams is more incurved than two end segments outside 7 the arcuate seams, and the two arcuate seams are away from a wearer 's joint.
8 Whereby, the support bandage can be tightly abut a knee or an elbow yet have 9 few wrinkles and will not uncomfortably press the wearer.